Your Dashboard

An Overview of The Reintroduction Hub

Once you have registered for The Reintroduction Hub, you will be directed to this dashboard whenever you login. From here, you will be able to invite students and easily understand their needs. From the dashboard you will be able to see how much each student has engaged with The Reintroduction Hub and how their well being has improved or declined over time.

To access tools and resources to support the use of The Reintroduction Hub in the classroom, then you can visit www.thereintroductionhub.co.uk/teacher-resource

Inviting Students

via email

Enter each pupils first name, surname and email address.

Clicking 'add the student' will add to the column on the right. Click 'Send Invites' to send emails to all pupils added.

Invite students without an email

For students without an email address, simply add their first name, surname and then create them a username and password. Once registered the details of students will be sent to your email address.

Supporting Students

class view

'View Students' provides a quick overview of all students in your class utilising a traffic light system. Grey indicates that students are yet to full complete each factor on The Reintroduction Hub. Red indicates a need for immediate support or intervention, Green suggests good mental wellbeing and Amber shows there are some areas for improvement.

Individual view

By clicking on any individual student, you can see the specific scores of each factor, indicating the specific numerical score and the same traffic light system that is used on the class view page. In the individual student view, you are also able to see the student's previous scores in order to view progress or decline in the specific areas that contribute to good well being.

Additional Resources

Teachers Resources Pack

Our teachers resources pack is designed to help you introduce The Reintroduction Hub to your class and encourage and support your pupils whilst they use it to explore their emotional well being and the return to school.

Kids CovidMH

Our weekly twitter chat is designed to ensure we can discuss and share our experiences as both parents and teachers. We cover a variety of topics relating to the way Covid-19 has affected our children and their mental health.

Class Worksheets

We have created a variety of worksheets that, along with the Teacher's resource pack and worksheets available from with The Reintroduction Hub allow us teachers to utilise a whole school and individual approach to well being and management of the return to school.
